

The Application for the TEMA Erasmus+ Master Course is Open for Candidates

Are you interested in a multidisciplinary approach to the humanities and social sciences? Would you like to study abroad in Paris, Budapest, Prague, or Catania? Would you like to receive double or multiple diplomas?

The 2-year (120 ECTS) European Master Course TEMA European Territories: Identity and Development is program of academic excellence. It offers an interdisciplinary approach to major issues such as the nation, region, civilization and city, with focus on urban history/studies and heritage studies. The program is available for students holding a BA degree from a wide range of academic backgrounds, mainly from the humanities and social sciences.

The academic quality of the TEMA program is guaranteed by renowned European universities, namely the Eötvös Loránd University of Budapest, Charles University of Prague, the École des Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales of Paris, and the University of Catania. Even though the official languages of the program are English and French, the special option „English ONLY“ is also available.

Since the program does not currently offer scholarships, students need to secure financial assistance on their own. A student can either apply as a self-paying student or obtain a scholarship from various foundations.
