

Coronavirus: Current Information and Instructions for Students and Staff of CU FA

Based on the current government measures, the following rules apply to teaching in the winter semester.

Classes are taught face to face. Exceptions are courses for which the programme guarantor has decided to switch to distance learning. The relevant department or institute will inform students of these exceptions. Neither teachers nor students are obliged to wear respirators during classes. Outside of classes, it is mandatory to wear respirators on the faculty premises.

The requirement to check for the absence of Covid-19 infection currently applies only to academic ceremonies and enrolment. Classes and examinations are now not subject to this obligation, regardless of the number of participants, and therefore checks will be carried out neither at building entrances nor by teachers in classrooms.

We will inform you of any changes in time.
