OBSAH

Editorial ......................................................................................................................... 7
1. Reactivity and frustration tolerance from the point of view of psychology in sentenced perpetrators of crime – K. Okrouhlická ................................................................. 9
3. Concentration of attention in the context of mental states as a precondition for successful work with advanced automated command and control systems – R. Pospíšil ............ 37
4. Work with pupils with a different mother tongue – cooperation between pedagogical-psychological counseling center and elementary schools – M. Vrbová ............ 53
5. School and charity projects – I. Chlebounová ............................................................. 61
Recenzí ........................................................................................................................... 67

CONTENT

Editorial .......................................................................................................................... 7
1. Reactivity and frustration tolerance from the point of view of psychology in sentenced perpetrators of crime – K. Okrouhlická ................................................................. 9
3. Concentration of attention in the context of mental states as a precondition for successful work with advanced automated command and control systems – R. Pospíšil ............ 37
4. Work with pupils with a different mother tongue – cooperation between pedagogical-psychological counseling center and elementary schools – M. Vrbová ............ 53
5. School and charity projects – I. Chlebounová ............................................................. 61
Book Review .................................................................................................................... 67