Diversity of disciplines at the Charles University, Faculty of Arts and the outstanding quality of research create a unique academic environment with an impact extending far beyond the Czech context. This is of course reflected in the FA publishing activity. Publications by our staff members often represent the highest standard and serve as basic reference titles in their fields.

For several years now, the flagship of the Faculty of Arts editorial activity, the Opera Facultatis philosophicae Universitatis Carolinæ Pragensis series, has been introducing exceptional works which affirm the prestige of our research. The traditional Acta Universitatis Carolinæ edition series has been recently joined by the exclusively monograph editions published by the Faculty of Arts Press: Mnemosyne, Trivium, Fontes, Humanitas and Varia. Besides these regular series, FA Press publishes several representative individual works every year.

The wide range of subjects taught and researched at the faculty is reflected in our journals that are published several times a year, often in foreign languages. Beginning with the year 2015, all FA Press journals offered in this catalogue are Open Access journals with online content freely available to the readers under the CC BY-NC-ND 2.0 licence. The publishing activities of the FA are thematically so diverse and of such outstanding quality that they are able to address both the experts and the lay public.
Journal for Modern Philology is a peer-reviewed non-impacted linguistic journal published in Czech (or Slovak). It was launched in 1911 and between 1926 and 1935 it was the main publication outlet for the Prague Linguistic Circle. It is concerned with contrastive linguistics, the study of West-European languages in contrast with Czech (or Slovak). The focus is primarily on major European languages (English, German, French, Spanish, Italian and Portuguese), to a minor extent on other languages. Items include original articles covering all aspects of contrastive linguistic description, along with interdisciplinary approaches. However, in view of the range of other, specialized periodicals, Journal for Modern Philology does not, with a few exceptions, accept items dealing with issues concerning Slavic Studies, Oriental Studies, teaching methodology, Translation Studies and Literary Sciences.

FÓRUM SOCIÁLNÍ PRÁCE / SOCIAL WORK FORUM

Formerly print, since 2015 online-only journal is focused on the theory and practice of social work, social policy and related disciplines. Reviewed academic papers form the core of the journal. In addition, the journal contains preliminary and methodological communications and reviews of domestic and foreign publications. A special section of the journal is dedicated to abbreviated versions of final student theses. Another section presents examples of good practice or work methods that could serve as an inspiration or model; another regular section is dedicated to discussion and polemic on topical themes in the field. A special section concentrates on the language of the field of study, while another regular column is dedicated to the history of the field. Editorial support is provided to the journal by the Department of Social Work of the Faculty of Arts of Charles University, established in 1992 as one of the first departments of its kind in the Czech Republic.

Based on the specialist orientation of the Institute of Czech History of the Faculty of Arts of Charles University, the Historie — Otázky — Problémy profile thematically focuses on the history of the Czech lands and Central Europe, from the early Middle Ages down to contemporary history. Individual studies are to cover a broad range of topical historical subjects, both involving political, cultural, social and economic history and the history of historiography, current developments in the methodology of historical studies and issues associated with the didactics of history. In all these areas the journal operates not only along the latest historiographical lines, but also and in particular in broader interdisciplinary collaboration with other humanities subjects (e.g. auxiliary historical studies, history of art, Czech studies, philosophy, philological fields, sociology, Jewish studies and the like). The extensive annotations provide the researcher community with continuous information on successful diploma theses and dissertations. Individual issues are complemented with the usual research service in the form of reviews, annotations and news from Czech and foreign conferences.
LINGUISTICA PRAGENSIA

Linguistica Pragensia is a peer-reviewed international academic journal published by the Faculty of Arts, Charles University (Department of English Language and ELT Methodology, Institut für germanische Studien, Institut des Études Romanes / Instituto de Estudios Románicos). PRAŽSKÉ EGYPTOLOGICKÉ STUDIE / PRAGUE EGYPTOLOGICAL STUDIES

Prague Egyptological Studies is a journal published since 2002 annually, since 2013 biannually by the Czech Institute of Egyptology of the Faculty of Arts of Charles University both in Prague and Cairo, through which egyptologists and their collaborators inform the Czech and Slovak professional and informed general public about the results of their work. All the published articles have a common subject — Ancient Egypt, its history, archaeology, religion, art, architecture and other related aspects. In addition to studies focusing on various aspects of Ancient Egypt, Prague Egyptological Studies also contains articles on Oriental studies, the natural sciences and the history of research in the country on the Nile River. The annual regular reports on archaeological research in Egypt and Sudan.
Slovo a smysl / Word & Sense, a journal of interdisciplinary theory and criticism in Czech studies, was established in 2004. The periodical strives to create a forum for scholarly debate and the elaboration of various theoretical and methodological approaches within the context of Czech literary studies. With its emphasis on publishing primary sources and the translation of both Czech belles lettres and global literary theory, the journal acts an aid in the teaching of Czech literature and literary theory not only in Czech universities, but also in foreign university programs. The journal contains longer original scholarly works, individual analyses of more extensive specialized topics, and contextual and biographical essays on significant figures in the field. It also focuses on Czech studies at home and abroad and provides the latest information about the scholarly activities of various foreign programs; the Translations section provides translations of important or stimulating theoretical texts into Czech and of significant Czech literary and theoretical texts into other languages, especially English.

The journal is a continuation of Čeština doma a ve světě (The Czech Language at Home and Abroad) published during 1993–2008; it began to appear under its new title in 2010, focusing on selected aspects of applied linguistics, the interdisciplinary field of language description and related methodological issues. In addition to specialised articles, the journal also contains portraits of significant personalities in the world of linguistics, translations or re-prints of basic and inspirational works in the development of relevant areas of linguistics, reviews of specialised publications and the latest news in the field, relating mainly to the Central European region. The contributions are published in Czech, Slovak or English; a scientific board of leading domestic and foreign experts, governs the journal.
The peer reviewed journal (since 1991) focuses on modern European and American literatures, with outreach to other cultural areas. It stresses the comparative approach to literature, it helps to integrate the study of foreign literatures in the light of modern literary criticism and the problems of contemporary era. Among authors you can find Carlos Fuentes (Mexico), Xavier Galmiche (France), Stephen Greenblatt (Great Britain), Aage Hansen-Löeve (Austria), Urs Heftrich (Germany), Miguel León-Portilla (Mexico), Oleg Malevič (Russia), Graciela Maturo (Argentina), Marc Quaghebeur (Belgium), Fernando Savater (Spain), Wasilij Ščukin (Poland), or Gertraude Zand (Austria). Papers are published in Czech, some of them in foreign languages; all papers have English abstract and a list of keywords.
