Article 13

Curriculum

1. The curricula of the respective programmes of study and any specializations thereof²² are published as a database on the web pages of the Faculty.²³ The Accreditation Office of the Dean's Office of the Faculty (the "Accreditation Office") ensures that the curricula, groups of courses, and compulsory courses are duly entered in SIS.

²³ See planv.ff.cuni.cz.

2. The head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty ensures that courses are entered in SIS in a timely manner and in accordance with the curriculum and that they are subsequently implemented. In each academic year, the basic unit of the Faculty responsible for instruction in a specific programme of study is required to offer courses corresponding to at least 60 credits for single curriculum studies and 30 credits for double curriculum studies so that a student can fulfil all study obligations prescribed in the curriculum by the end of the standard period of study.

Article 14

Specification of Curricula: Schedule and Course Descriptions

1. The curricula are specified in a schedule for each semester. The schedule must be published in SIS in accordance with the dean's current guidelines, but no later than one day before the start of the electronic enrolment of courses in SIS, and, where appropriate, also on the web pages of the respective basic unit of the Faculty and its notice board.
2. For each specific course offered in the schedule, the instructor or another designated person at the basic unit of the Faculty must draw up a course description. The course description must be published in SIS no later than at the time of publication of the schedule, and it must include brief information about the content of the course, both in Czech and in English, a required (or recommended) reading list, as well as assessment (attestation) requirements.
3. The head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty ensures that schedules and course descriptions are accurate and complete and that they are published in SIS in a timely manner.
4. The head of each basic unit of the Faculty designates at least one person as a local SIS administrator and schedule administrator²⁴ who is responsible for entering the courses and relevant details in SIS and for preparing schedules. The local SIS administrator and schedule administrator may not be a student of a bachelor's or master's programme of study at the Faculty. The head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty ensures that the details of the local SIS administrator and schedule administrator, and any updates, are submitted without delay to the Information Systems Office of the Dean's Office (the "Information Systems Office").
5. Training and field trips included in a programme of study may be held at any time during the academic year. The dates are determined by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty upon agreement with students. In the case of double curriculum studies, participation in training or field trips announced in advance is considered a valid reason for not attend instruction in the second programme of study and may not be used as justification for not passing the courses a student is enrolled in.

Article 15

Enrolment for the Next School Year

1. Monitoring study obligations and enrolment for the next school year take place electronically in SIS.
2. Electronic enrolment for the next school year, pursuant to clause 1, does not apply to students who enrol in the first year of studies and those who enrol after ending the interruption of studies.
3. Students who are not subject to electronic enrolment under clause 2 enrol for the next school year by undergoing an assessment and physical enrolment at the Student Affairs Office.
4. Students enrol electronically for the next school year via the SIS web interface. Detailed instructions for electronic enrolment are provided on the Faculty's web pages.²⁵
5. In the application "Exam Results", students check the number of credits they have acquired. If the number of credits displayed is insufficient for enrolling in the next year of studies, but the student is convinced that they have acquired the necessary number of credits, they should follow the instructions available on the Faculty's web pages. If the number of credits is sufficient, the student submits their binding application for enrolment in the next school year by clicking on the button "Submit Application" in the SIS web interface.
6. Within four business days or within ten business days during July and August, an employee of the Student Affairs Office verifies that the requirements for enrolment have been fulfilled and enrolls the student for the next school year. If the student learns that they are not enrolled for the next school year by the deadlines stipulated above, they should contact the respective employee (an officer of the Student Affairs Office) and the head of the Student Affairs Office via e-mail without delay.
7. The schedule for enrolment in the next school year is set out in the academic calendar.
8. An application for enrolment in the next school year as described above must be submitted by the date prescribed in the academic calendar. For the purposes of advancing to the next school year, only the assessment (attestation) completed and entered in SIS by this date is taken into account.
9. Requests for recognition of courses completed during other studies which should be taken into account for enrolment in the next school year must be submitted by the date prescribed in the academic calendar.

Article 16

²⁵ Http://manually.ff.cuni.cz.

1. At the beginning of each semester, students enrolled for studies enter in SIS the courses that they wish to complete during the semester.
2. Entering this course in SIS is a necessary requirement for completing the course and assessment (attestation). Following the preliminary enrolment of courses, students are required to carry out a check of course enrolment in SIS in order to verify whether all requirements for enrolment in the courses have been fulfilled and to adjust the courses enrolled in accordingly.
3. The respective basic unit of the Faculty may stipulate in SIS, in accordance with the curriculum, the requirements for enrolment and completion of a course, pursuant to Article 7(5) of the Code of Study and Examination.
4. Detailed instructions for enrolling in courses are provided on the Faculty's web pages.²⁶
5. Students who intend to study abroad in an Erasmus+ programme during the subsequent semester(s) must draw up a list of courses before leaving that they wish to complete abroad and that correspond to the courses of the curriculum stipulated in the accreditation of the programme of study and apply to the coordinator of the Erasmus+ programme at the respective basic unit of the Faculty for approval of this list. Based on this approved list, they subsequently enter these courses in SIS or, if this is not possible, they ask the Student Affairs Office to enter these courses in SIS. The coordinator of the Erasmus+ programme at the respective basic unit of the Faculty decides on the possibility of entering the courses in SIS after completion of the studies abroad.

Article 17

Examinations and Other Forms of Assessment (Attestation)

2. No later than two weeks before the beginning of the examination period, the instructor publishes for each course in which students may take an examination during this period under Article 8 of these Rules at least three dates for the examination period following instruction in the winter semester and at least two dates for the examination period following instruction in the summer semester. At least one more date must be published in the examination period following the summer holiday. This date must be published at least two weeks in advance. The dates published for various courses may overlap. If the instructor publishes only three dates in the examination period and the third date is full in terms of capacity, the capacity must be increased or a new date must be published, unless the academic calendar prevents this from happening.

²⁶ Http://manually.ff.cuni.cz.

²⁷ Article 8(2) of the Code of Study and Examination

3. The examination dates are published via SIS by the instructor or, where appropriate, by the person designated by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. The head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty ensures that the examination dates are duly published.
4. A student must register for an examination via SIS no later than three business days before the published date or in a different manner determined by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. The instructor of the course may allow a time limit shorter than three business days.
5. When requested by an instructor, students confirm their identity by showing their student identity card or another form of identification (in particular, their official ID card).
6. If other forms of assessment (attestation) of a course enrolled in for a specific school year take place on dates for which students must register in the same way as for examinations, clauses 2 to 5 apply accordingly.
7. Upon a justified request from a student or instructor, the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty may allow the replacement of an examiner before any examination date.
8. Upon a justified request from a student or an examiner, the dean may allow an examination to be held on a re-sit date before a board appointed by the dean. In addition to the submitted request, the dean requires an opinion from the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty.
9. Upon a justified request from a student in the event of a written or otherwise recognized and re-assessable form of assessment (attestation) of a course, the dean may order a new evaluation of the written or otherwise recognized and re-assessable form of assessment (attestation) of a course by another instructor, and based on this evaluation, order a change in the grading. The student must submit the request no later than one month after the day the grade of the written form of assessment (attestation) of the course was recorded in SIS.
10. The instructor or, where appropriate, a person designated by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty enters the assessment (attestation) result²⁸ in SIS within nine days of completion of the assessment (attestation), but no later than by the date stipulated in the academic calendar for fulfilment of study obligations. The instructor or, where appropriate, a person designated by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty ensures that the data entered in SIS matches the results actually achieved and that any detected irregularities are remedied without delay.
11. Students who have studied abroad in an Erasmus+ programme apply to the coordinator of the Erasmus+ programme at the respective basic unit of the Faculty for approval of the list of fulfilled assessment (attestation) results. The coordinator of the Erasmus+ programme at the respective basic unit of the Faculty decides on the possibility to enter in SIS the assessment (attestation) results acquired in courses other than those previously enrolled in via SIS.

12. The instructor or, where appropriate, a person designated by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty expresses the grade “fail” by entering “4” for each date.
13. If a course is completed with several forms of assessment (attestation), the credits for its completion are acquired only after the last form of assessment (attestation) has been successfully completed.
14. Students monitor on a continuous basis whether the assessment (attestation) results have been entered in SIS, but at the latest nine days after the date on which the assessment (attestation) took place. In the event of any irregularities (no result/a wrong result/a wrong date was entered for the assessment (attestation), etc.), students should contact the instructor or, where appropriate, the designated persons at the respective basic unit of the Faculty without delay. If the situation is not remedied, students should contact the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty and the vice-dean for studies.

Article 18 Individual Curriculum

1. In addition to the reasons specified in the Code of Study and Examination,²⁹ the dean permits an individual curriculum in particular for serious health-related or social reasons, for an internship abroad, or for any reasons that are serious or worthy of special consideration. The heads of the respective basic units of the Faculty provide their opinions relating to requests for an individual curriculum.³⁰
2. In the first year of a bachelor’s programme, an individual curriculum for reasons other than serious health-related problems is permitted only in exceptional cases.
3. The dean of the Faculty may permit an individual curriculum, other than for the reasons set out in the Code of Study and Examination³¹, only for the year of study in which a student is currently enrolled or, where appropriate, also for the year which immediately follows.
4. With the exception of requests submitted for the reasons set out in the Code of Study and Examination,³² a student must submit a request for an individual curriculum within two months of the beginning of the respective academic year. After this date, a request for an individual curriculum may be granted only if the reasons for granting an individual curriculum arose after this date, or if the student was demonstrably prevented by serious health-related or other reasons from submitting the request for an individual curriculum on time. Even in such cases, an individual curriculum must not be permitted for a specific year after the regular deadline for enrolment in the next school year has passed. A request must always be accompanied by documents substantiating the claims on the basis of which the student is applying for an individual curriculum.

5. An individual curriculum may be permitted for the reasons set out in the Code of Study and Examination³³. In other cases, it is usually conditional on the consent of the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. When dealing with a request for an individual curriculum, the dean requests, if necessary, an opinion from a relevant expert or advisory centre or a functional diagnosis in the case of students with special needs.
6. A request for an individual curriculum for the purposes of child care for the recognized period of parental leave³⁴ must be accompanied by one of the following documents: a copy of the child's birth certificate; a copy of a competent authority's decision about child custody; and in the case of an expectant mother, a copy of a pregnancy certificate supplemented with a copy of the child's birth certificate within 22 weeks of the birth.
7. An individual curriculum may have the following forms:

8. The Student Affairs Office informs the heads of the respective basic unit of the Faculty about the specific form of the permitted individual curriculum.
9. The Student Affairs Office keeps a comprehensible register of individual curricula that have been permitted.

Article 19 State Examination

1. Students register for the state examination, or a part of the state examination³⁵, via SIS by the dates stipulated in the academic calendar. Students of inter-faculty studies with a different home faculty apply by submitting an extraordinary printed application to the Student Affairs Office.
2. Students are notified via SIS of the date and place of the state examination or a part thereof at least five days before the start of the period designated under the academic calendar for state examinations, during which the state examination or a part thereof should take place based on the application submitted.

³³ Article 5(15) of the Code of Study and Examination

³⁴ Section 54a(1) in conjunction with Section 21(1f) of the Higher Education Act, Article 5(15a) of the Code of Study and Examination, Sections 195 to 198 of Act no. 262/2006 Sb., the Labour Code, as amended

³⁵ Article 9 of the Code of Study and Examination

3. In justified cases, the dean may change the date of the state examination upon a written request from the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty or a student, but no later than one week before the new date.
4. When asked to do so by any member of the board of examiners, students must confirm their identity by showing their student identity card or another identification document (in particular, their official ID card).
5. The state examination and the announcement of its results or parts thereof are public.³⁶ The board of examiners decides on the grades in a private meeting by voting, i.e. by the show of hands. If any member of the board of examiners so requests, voting may be done secretly using ballots. The present members of the board of examiners may not abstain.³⁷
6. In the event of a grade of “fail”, the board of examiners justifies this grade so that the reasons for the grade are clear from this justification and that the grade is open for review, informs the student of the option to comment on the grade and its justification in the state examination protocol, and records these comments of the student in the protocol. The student is entitled to change or supplement their comments within three days of taking the state examination.
7. The state examination is presided over and the activities of the board are managed by the chair of the board. In exceptional cases, the chair may be represented in all of their functions by a deputy designated by the dean and selected from among the appointed members of the board.
8. Students may register for each part of the state examination a maximum of three times. An examination date from which a student was duly excused is not included. The student addresses their excuse to the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. The chair of the board of examiners decides whether the excuse is legitimate. If a student fails to appear on the date of the state examination, the board of examiners does not grade the state examination. However, this fact is recorded in the report on the state examination, including a justified decision of the chair of the board of examiners as to whether or not the student was duly excused.³⁸
9. The chair of the board of examiners arranges for a report to be drawn up on the state examination. The head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty ensures that an identical electronic record of the state examination is uploaded in SIS and that a printed report is submitted to the Student Affairs Office within five business days of the state examination date.

 - b) By publishing a list of potential topics for bachelor's and master's theses.
3. After a student registers for a thesis topic and a designated person at the respective basic unit of the Faculty confirms the selection in SIS, the potential thesis advisor enters the relevant details in SIS in collaboration with the student ("thesis preparation principles" and "list of literature"). The designated person at the respective basic unit of the Faculty then prints out the thesis assignment, submits it to the head of the basic unit of the Faculty for approval, and subsequently submits the assignment to the Student Affairs Office without undue delay. Next, the Student Affairs Office confirms the approved thesis topic in SIS ("confirmed by the Student Affairs Office"), and the student receives an e-mail generated from SIS as notification. If the head of the basic unit of the Faculty does not approve the thesis topic, the Student Affairs Office will remove the student's topic in SIS, and the student will need to propose a new topic.
4. Once the thesis has been confirmed by the Student Affairs Office, the student may only change in SIS the keywords in Czech and English. In addition, the student may save an electronic version of the thesis, appendices, and abstracts in SIS.
5. Once the thesis has been confirmed by the Student Affairs Office, the thesis advisor may modify the title of the thesis in SIS upon agreement with the student while retaining the originally assigned thesis topic. Such modifications may involve only minor formal changes to the title or specifications of the topic, not changes to the thesis topic itself. In addition, the thesis advisor may modify upon agreement with the student the thesis preparation principles and the list of literature.
6. The thesis topic does not need to be identical to the thesis title. The thesis title may specify the topic, and it may be changed throughout the writing process with the thesis advisor's approval. The thesis topic may be changed only upon a written request from the student using a prescribed form and subject to the dean's approval. The thesis advisor and the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty provide their opinion on the request, and approval of the request is usually conditional on their consent.
7. A bachelor's thesis advisor must be at least a graduate of a master's programme of study or the equivalent. A master's thesis advisor must be at least a graduate of a PhD programme of study or the equivalent. In justified cases, the dean may make an exception to these rules at the request of the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty.

8. Any changes of the thesis advisor or language of the thesis must be approved by the dean upon a written request from the student and recommended by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty.
9. In exceptional and justified cases, the dean of the Faculty is entitled to change a thesis advisor upon a proposal made by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty, the thesis advisor, or on the dean's own initiative, even without the student's consent. The student is notified of this decision without delay.

Article 21

Requirements, Formal Arrangements, and Submission of Bachelor's and Master's Theses

1. A thesis is usually submitted in a language in which the programme of study has been accredited. A thesis may also be written in English or in a language that is being studied by a student of a philological programme of study or which is justified by the topic of the thesis. A decision that the thesis will be written in a language other than the language of the accredited programme must be stated in the thesis assignment. A thesis topic must always be provided in Czech, English, and in the language of the thesis. A thesis title must be provided in the language in which the thesis is to be submitted.
2. A bachelor's thesis must be a minimum of 72,000 characters (i.e. 40 standard pages), and a master's thesis must be a minimum of 108,000 characters (i.e. 60 standard pages). The length requirement includes all text except for the appendices. Recommended formal requirements for the thesis are provided in the guidelines published on the web pages of the Faculty. While complying with the minimum requirements stipulated in these Rules, the basic units of the Faculty may further specify the required scope and other thesis requirements.
3. A thesis must contain all of the formal requirements: a table of contents, a bibliography and references, an abstract in Czech and English or in another language if the thesis was written in a language other than Czech or English, keywords in Czech and English, and where appropriate, other requirements specified by the respective basic unit of the Faculty.
4. The title page of the thesis must contain the following information:
 - a) The name of the university, faculty, and basic unit of the faculty where the thesis is submitted for defence;
 - b) The designation: Bachelor's Thesis/Master's Thesis;
 - c) The programme of study;
 - d) The author's name;

- e) The title of the thesis in Czech and English; if the thesis was written in a language other than Czech or English, the title of the thesis in that language as well;
 - f) The name of the thesis advisor, and where appropriate, other advisors;
 - g) The year of submission of the thesis for defence.
5. A separate page following the title page must include the author's statement of originality, confirming that:
- a) The author has prepared the thesis on their own;
 - b) All sources and literature have been properly cited;
 - c) The thesis has not been submitted in the past in order to fulfil a study obligation as a part of another programme of study or submitted for defence in another university programme of study or for a different degree or the same degree (except where provided for in agreements regarding "joint degree" or "double degree" programmes).
6. Students submit their theses electronically via SIS. The electronic form for the thesis must include the following separate PDF files: the thesis text, an abstract in Czech, and an abstract in English. Theses may include other optional appendices. Students are responsible for the completeness of the electronic thesis, including the mandatory appendices. Based on the instructions of the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty, students are required to submit a maximum of two printed copies of the duly submitted electronic thesis as support for the external reviewer and the board of examiners.
7. The standard deadline for submitting the thesis is no later than one month before the beginning of the period designated for state examinations according to the academic calendar and during which the thesis is to be defended in accordance with the submitted application. The head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty may stipulate a different deadline for the submission of bachelor's and master's theses, but such deadline must fall within the period from three months to three weeks before the date of the defence. If the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty wishes to stipulate a date earlier than one month before the period designated for state examinations according to the academic calendar, they must do so no later than at the beginning of the respective academic year.

Defence of Bachelor's and Master's Theses

1. Students may defend their theses no earlier than six months after the assignment was entered in SIS. This time limit commences after the thesis topic was entered in SIS, i.e. the date on which the thesis was confirmed for the student in SIS by the designated person at the respective basic unit of the Faculty under Article 21(3) of these Rules, provided subsequent confirmation was made by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. Based on a student's request recommended by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty and the thesis advisor, the dean of the Faculty may shorten this time limit in exceptional circumstances.

2. The defence of a bachelor's or master's thesis is part of the state examination, and all of the relevant provisions of the Code of Study and Examination and these Rules apply accordingly.³⁹
3. The thesis is made available to the public for inspection via an electronic database of theses no later than five business days before the defence, and from the twenty-first day after the defence until it is made available via the University's thesis repository, or at the Student Affairs Office during office hours, unless a request has been submitted to defer publication of the thesis.
4. Any thesis submitted must be assessed in writing by the thesis advisor and one external reviewer. An external reviewer is appointed by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. An external reviewer may not be an advisor. The thesis advisor and the external reviewer may be members of the board of examiners. The head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty ensures that the thesis is made available to the thesis advisor and the external reviewer and that it is made available during the defence. Reports are usually drawn up in a language in which the programme of study has been accredited. A different language is used only if approved by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. The thesis advisor's report and the external reviewer's report must be made available to the student via SIS no later than five days before the thesis defence. The reports must include a proposed grade. The head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty ensures that these formalities are complied with.
5. If both reports propose the grade "fail", the student is entitled to withdraw from the defence, but no later than three days before the defence date. A withdrawal notice stating that the student has read the reports, that they acknowledge the reservations expressed, and that, based on the thesis advisor's and external reviewer's evaluations, they must re-write or supplement the thesis must be sent electronically by this deadline to the thesis advisor and the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. Subsequently a printed and signed copy must be sent to the Student Affairs Office by the date of the defence. On the basis of this statement, the defence is graded as "fail".
6. The thesis defence is held in a language in which the programme of study has been accredited or in a language which is being studied by a student of a philological programme of study, provided this is stipulated in the curriculum of that programme of study. The defence may also be held in English or in a different language if this is justified by the language or topic of the thesis. The language of the defence may be changed only upon a written request from the student, which is decided upon by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty. The thesis advisor provides their opinion on the request, and approval of the request is usually conditional on their consent.
7. The board of examiners takes into account the reports of the thesis advisor and the external reviewer during the defence. As a part of the defence, the student briefly outlines the thesis and subsequently responds to the questions, comments, and objections raised by the thesis advisor, the external reviewer, and the members of the board of examiners.

8. If a student fails to appear on the date of the defence, they may not make any changes to the thesis before the next date of the defence, with the exception of errata.

Part III

Detailed Rules of Study in PhD Programmes of Study

Article 23

Curriculum and Implementation of the Programme of Study

1. The curricula of programmes of study stipulate the volume and form of study obligations as well as the form of assessment. They include three parts:
 - a) Obligations related to writing the PhD dissertation,
 - b) Basic study obligations,
 - c) Professional activities.
2. The curricula of individual programmes of study are published in a database on the Faculty's web pages.⁴⁰ The Accreditation Office ensures that the curricula are properly entered in SIS.

Article 24

Supervisor

1. Only a full professor or associate professor may be a supervisor. In justified cases, a graduate of a PhD programme of study or the equivalent may be a supervisor as well.
2. A supervisor who is a full professor or associate professor may supervise no more than ten students at the University. A supervisor who is not a full professor or associate professor may supervise no more than two students at the University. In justified cases, upon request of the chair of the respective subject-area board, the dean may grant an exception to these limits.
3. A supervisor, in particular:
 - a) supervises the student's academic development, integrates the student into the research activities of the workplace, and assists the student with international networking,
 - b) monitors and assesses, on an annual basis in accordance with the academic calendar, fulfilment of the student's individual curriculum, and submits this assessment to the subject-area board established for the specific PhD programme of study (the “respective subject-area board”).

Article 25 Individual Curriculum

1. The supervisor prepares a draft individual curriculum (the “IC”) in collaboration with the student in SIS. The supervisor then submits the draft IC to the respective subject-area board for consideration and approval.
2. The IC must be based on the primary structure of study obligations provided in the accreditation of the respective programme of study. The IC is drawn up so that the student may fulfil the curriculum requirements during their studies in accordance with the accreditation.
3. The study obligations of a full-time PhD programme are distributed in the IC over the standard period of study. The study obligations of a part-time (combined) PhD programme may be distributed over the standard period of study plus two additional years. Regardless of the form of study and the standard period of study, the basic study obligations according to the curriculum of the programme of study must be distributed in the IC over the first three years of study. Completion of the state PhD examination (the “SDZK”) must be scheduled in the IC within the first three years of study at the latest.
4. The IC contains:
 - a) A list of all study obligations in accordance with the accreditation of the respective programme of study or in accordance with the curriculum of the programme of study,
 - b) The years of study for fulfilment of the basic study obligations and the obligations related to the PhD dissertation,
 - c) The form of assessment (attestation) and any requirements for the assessment,
 - d) The year of study in which the SDZK should be taken,
 - e) The topic/title of the dissertation and the language of the dissertation if it is different from the language in which the programme of study has been accredited, including the year of study in which the dissertation should be submitted.
5. The IC is managed in SIS.
6. In the case of studies offered in collaboration with another, in particular foreign, institution of higher education, the IC may reasonably deviate from the requirements above in justified cases.

Article 26 Changes to the Individual Curriculum

1. As a rule, students apply for changes to the IC in a report on the previous study period submitted via SIS as part of the regular assessment of fulfilment of the IC^{40a}. Students may use other methods of applying for a change in the IC only in exceptional and justified cases. The respective subject-area board decides on changes in the IC. The request must be accompanied by documents substantiating the claims on the basis of which the student is applying for a change in the IC and must be recommended by the supervisor.
2. If a student fails to fulfil the obligations stipulated in the IC for a specific year, they do not apply for a change in the IC in order to obtain a new date for fulfilment of the obligation. A new date for fulfilment of the obligation is determined by the respective subject-area board upon the supervisor's proposal during negotiations and approval of the assessment for fulfilling the IC under Article 10(8 a or b) of the Code of Study and Examination, unless the respective subject-area board concludes, in accordance with Article 10(8c) of the Code of Study and Examination, that the student has not fulfilled the obligations in accordance with the IC.
3. A request for a change in the IC for the purposes of child care for the recognized period of parental leave⁴¹ must be accompanied by one of the following documents: a copy of the child's birth certificate; a copy of a competent authority's decision on child custody; in the case of an expectant mother, a copy of a pregnancy certificate supplemented with a copy of the child's birth certificate within 22 weeks of the birth.

Article 27

Studies and the Assessment of Studies

1. After admission and enrolment in studies, students no longer enrol for the subsequent years of study. However, continuation in studies for subsequent years is conditional upon fulfilment of the IC, which is assessed each year in accordance with the academic calendar by the supervisor and the respective subject-area board under Article 10(8 and 9) of the Code of Study and Examination. If, for any reason, especially due to the interruption of studies, assessment is not completed by the deadline under the academic calendar, the assessment is completed in the earliest possible term after remedying the obstacles preventing the assessment so that the student is always assessed at least once during a calendar year of their studies, with the exception of situations where additional assessment should take place sooner than in three months in accordance with the academic calendar.
2. If a student is assessed in accordance with Article 10(8b) of the Code of Study and Examination, the respective subject-area board has the option to determine whether the student will undergo an extraordinary assessment once again during the specific year of studies, as a rule upon lapse of four months after the end of assessment. This assessment is carried out according to the rules set out in clause 3.

^{40a} Article 27(2) of these Rules

3. The supervisor draws up an assessment of fulfilment of the IC and submits it for approval to the respective subject-area board in accordance with the academic calendar for each year of the student's studies. The assessment draws on the data in SIS and information provided in the studies report for the previous period submitted by the student via SIS. This includes, in particular, information about the student's professional activities and progress with the PhD dissertation. The assessment of fulfilment of the IC must include an evaluation of how the IC has been fulfilled thus far, a list of any unfulfilled obligations, and a recommendation for the next year of study, including, where appropriate, any proposed changes to the IC or detailed justification of a proposal to terminate studies. The supervisor proposes a final assessment result in accordance with Article 10(8 and 9) of the Code of Study and Examination.
4. Students who study abroad as part of their studies, regardless of the source of funding for these studies, are required to indicate this fact in SIS before their departure. The information about studies abroad must include the duration of the placement, the country, and the name of the host institution where the student will study.
5. A student's request is usually accommodated if approved by the supervisor and the chair of the respective subject-area board or, where appropriate, a deputy designated by the chair, unless an internal regulation of the University or the Faculty or a rector's directive or a dean's measure stipulates that the subject-area board should give its opinion on the request. The dean of the Faculty may request an opinion from other persons as well.

Article 28

Enrolment in Courses at the Beginning of a Semester

The PhD and Academic Qualifications Office (the "PhD and Academic Qualifications Office") arranges enrolment for courses in SIS in accordance with the valid ICs. Students may enrol for courses not included in their IC in SIS during the period of time stipulated in the academic calendar.

Article 29

Assessment (Attestation)

1. A specific date for assessment (attestation) is determined by an examiner or the chair of the board of examiners upon agreement with the student.
2. The examiner or the chair of the board of examiners enters the assessment (attestation) result⁴² in SIS themselves or via the supervisor or a person designated by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty within nine days of the assessment (attestation) date, but no later than by the date stipulated in the academic calendar for fulfilment of study obligations should this date occur earlier. The person who entered the record in SIS ensures that the data entered in SIS match the results actually achieved and that any detected irregularities are remedied without delay.

3. As regards fulfilment of professional activities, the assessment (attestation) is determined by the chair of the respective subject-area board, usually upon the supervisor's proposal. The assessment (attestation) result is entered in accordance with clause 2. The chair of the respective subject-area board ensures that the result is entered in SIS.
4. If a student fails the assessment (attestation) for certain dates, the examiner or the chair of the board of examiners enters themselves or via the supervisor or a person designated by the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty the result in SIS by indicating the grade "N" for each relevant date. If the student fails on the last re-sit date, this person must inform the respective officer at the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office by e-mail within nine days of the assessment (attestation).

Article 30 State PhD Examination

1. No later than two months before the anticipated SDZK date agreed with the supervisor and chair of the respective subject-area board, students register for the SDZK via SIS for the dates stipulated in the academic calendar or for other days upon agreement with the supervisor and the chair of the respective subject-area board. In exceptional and justified cases, the dean may change the deadline for registration. However, the time period leading up to the deadline may not be less than one month.
2. The dean determines the SDZK date upon proposal of the chair of the subject-area board so that the SDZK is held within three months of submission of the application, unless the application states a later date. However, the date may not be later than on the last day of the maximum period of study.
3. The SDZK may be held only if all the basic study obligations have been fulfilled in accordance with the IC.
4. After consultation with the members of the subject-area board and the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty, the chair of the respective subject-area board submits to the dean, via the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office, proposals for the appointment of the chairs and members of the specific boards of examiners, together with the dates and venues for the SDZKs, and the proposed assignment of students to the boards of examiners, no later than 21 days before holding the SDZK.^{42a}
5. The supervisor is always invited to attend their student's SDZK, and if the supervisor is an associate professor or full professor or if they have been approved by the research board of the Faculty as a specialist entitled to examine during SDZKs for a specific programme of study, they may participate as a member of the board of examiners.

^{42a} Article 11(3 to 9) of the Code of Study and Examination

6. In the event of a grade of “fail”, the board of examiners justifies this grade so that the reasons for the grade are clear from this justification and that the grade is open for review, informs the student of the option to comment on the grade and its justification in the state PhD examination protocol, and records the student’s comments in the protocol. A student is entitled to change or supplement their comments within three days of taking the state PhD examination.
7. The chair of the board of examiners ensures that a protocol is drawn up and saved of the SDZK⁴³ and voting in SIS and that the original documents and ballots, in the case of a confidential vote on grades, are delivered to the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office within five business days of the SDZK. The protocols are saved in the student’s file. A student may request a copy of their SDZK protocol at the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office.

Article 31

Topic and Assignment of the PhD Dissertation

1. The topic of the PhD dissertation is approved by the supervisor based on a student’s proposal during preparation of the IC based on the dissertation project, which was included in the student’s application for admission. The dissertation topic is officially assigned to a student when the IC is approved by the respective subject-area board.⁴⁴
2. The dissertation topic does not need to be identical to the dissertation title. The dissertation title may specify the topic, and it may be changed, subject to the supervisor’s consent, throughout the writing process while retaining the originally assigned topic. Such changes may involve only minor formal changes to the title or specifications of the topic, but no changes to the topic itself. The dissertation topic may be changed only upon a student’s request, subject to the approval of the supervisor and the respective subject-area board, typically when the assessment of fulfilment of the IC is being considered for approval.
3. The IC specifies of the language of the dissertation. Typically, it is the language in which the programme of study has been accredited. The dissertation may also be written in English or in a language that is justified by the topic of the dissertation. The language of the dissertation may be changed only upon a student’s written request, which is usually included in the student’s comments relating to their studies, on the basis of which the subject-area board assesses fulfilment of the IC for a specific year of study. The respective subject-area board decides on the request. The supervisor provides their opinion on the request, and the approval of the request is usually conditional on the supervisor’s consent. The dissertation topic must always be provided in Czech, English, and in the language of the dissertation. The dissertation title must be provided in the language in which the dissertation is to be submitted.

⁴³ Article 11(13) of the Code of Study and Examination

⁴⁴ Article 10(6) of the Code of Study and Examination

4. Once a PhD dissertation has been officially assigned, a student may only change the keywords in Czech and English in SIS. In addition, the student may electronically save the dissertation, the appendices, and abstracts via SIS.

Article 32

Requirements, Formal Arrangements, and Submission of PhD dissertations

1. Students submit their dissertation together with a summary via SIS no later than six months before the end of the maximum period of study. In exceptional and justified cases, the respective subject-area board may shorten this time limit upon a written request from the student. The request must be submitted at least eight months before the end of the maximum period of study. If the dissertation is not submitted by the specified deadline, the defence of the dissertation will not take place.
2. The dissertation must comply with the methodological standards in the subject area and must make an independent contribution to its development. The work must contain specific formal requirement: a table of contents, a bibliography and references, an abstract in Czech and English or in another language if the dissertation has been written in a language other than Czech or English, keywords in Czech and English, and any other requirements stipulated by the respective subject-area board. The guidelines on the formal requirements, layout, and submission of the dissertation are published on the web pages of the Faculty.
3. A mandatory document for the dissertation defence is the dissertation summary. The summary must include an overview of a student's publications and professional activities. The formal requirements for the summary are described on the web pages of the Faculty. The respective subject-area boards stipulate the mandatory content of summaries for the specific programmes of study.
4. The title page for a dissertation and the summary must contain the following data:
 - a) The name of the university, faculty, and basic unit of the faculty where the dissertation is submitted for defence;
 - b) The designation: PhD Dissertation;
 - c) The programme of study;
 - d) The name of the author;
 - e) The title of the dissertation in Czech and English; if the dissertation is written in a language other than Czech or English, then also the title of the dissertation in this language;
 - f) The name of the supervisor or any advisor;
 - g) The year of submitting the dissertation for defence.
5. A declaration of the author on the originality of the dissertation must be on a separate page after the title page confirming that:

- a) The dissertation was written independently;
 - b) All used sources and literature have been properly cited;
 - c) The dissertation has not been submitted for fulfilling the study obligations of different studies or submitted for defence as a part of another university programme of study or for acquiring another or the same degree, with the exception of cases regulated in international agreements, such as a cotutelle agreement.
6. Students must submit their dissertations electronically via SIS. The electronic version of a dissertation must include the following separate PDF files: the dissertation text, an abstract in Czech, an abstract in English, the dissertation summary. Dissertations may include other optional appendices. Students are responsible for the completeness of the electronic version of the dissertation, including the mandatory appendices. In exceptional cases, based on instruction from the chair of the respective subject-area board, students are required to submit no more than two printed copies of the duly submitted electronic version of the dissertation as support for the external reviewers and the board of examiners for the defence of the dissertation.
 7. The date of submission of a dissertation is recorded in SIS automatically.
 8. If a dissertation is published in printed form before the defence, the dean permits its submission in this form, upon the student's written request, even if it does not comply with all formal requirements under these Rules. However, the dissertation must contain a securely attached title page in accordance with clause 4 and the declaration in accordance with clause 5 of this article. A designated employee of the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office records this information in SIS.

Article 33

PhD Dissertation Defence

1. Students may defend their dissertations no sooner than one calendar year after they have enrolled in studies. In exceptional cases, the respective subject-area board may shorten this time limit upon the student's request with the supervisor's recommendation.
2. Upon fulfilling all other study obligations, a student submits their application for the dissertation defence via SIS immediately after submitting their dissertation. If the student has not yet passed the SDZK, submitting the SDZK application is sufficient in order to apply for the defence. A dissertation may not be defended before passing the SDZK. After receiving the defence application, the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office checks whether these requirements have been met. If the requirements have not been met, the office notifies the chair of the subject-area board without delay and requests that the student complete the outstanding requirements by the specified deadline. The dean stipulates the date for the defence upon a proposal from the chair of the subject-area board so that the defence can take place no later than six months after submission of the application, provided that all the requirements for the defence have been met, but no later than on the last day of the maximum period of study.

3. Dissertations are made available to the public for inspection via an electronic database of theses no later than five business days before the defence, and from the twenty-first day after the defence until it is made available via the university thesis repository, or at the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office during office hours, unless a request has been submitted to defer the publication of the dissertation.
4. The PhD and Academic Qualifications Office ensures that dissertations are made available to supervisors and external reviewers and that they are made available for the defence.
5. After consultation with members of the respective subject-area board and the head of the respective basic unit of the Faculty, the chair of the respective subject-area board submits to the dean via the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office proposals for the appointment of the chairs and members of the specific boards of examiners for dissertation defences, together with the proposed assignment of students to the specific boards, and the dates and places for the defences.^{44a} No later than 30 days after its appointment, the board for dissertation defence designates two external reviewers to draw up reports on the dissertation, as a rule, within one month. An advisor or supervisor may not serve as external reviewers. The reports are usually drawn up in a language in which the programme of study has been accredited. A different language is used only if approved by the chair of the board for dissertation defence. The supervisor, external reviewers, and advisors, if any, who are not members of the board are always invited to attend the defence, and they may participate in the meetings of the board in an advisory capacity, including its closed meetings.
6. After submission of the dissertation, but no later than 15 days before the dissertation defence, the external reviewers and the supervisor, or a designated employee at the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office, must upload in SIS the electronic files containing the external reviewers' reports and the supervisor's report, which provides a general assessment of the student's studies and their dissertation, so that they are available to the student. The external reviewers' reports and the supervisor's report must provide a proposed grade. The chair of the respective board ensures compliance with these rules.
7. The student is notified electronically via their e-mail address provided in SIS of the date and place of the defence no later than 15 days before the defence.
8. The dissertation defence is held in a language in which the programme of study has been accredited or in a language which is being studied by a student of a philological programme of study, as stipulated in the curriculum for that programme of study. The defence may also be held in English or in a different language if this is justified by the language or topic of the dissertation. The language of the defence may be changed only upon written request by the student, which is decided upon by the respective subject-area board. The supervisor gives their opinion on the request, and approval of the request is usually conditional on the supervisor's consent.

^{44a} Article 11(3 to 9) of the Code of Study and Examination

9. The defence is presided over and the activities of the board are managed by the chair of the board. In exceptional cases, the chair may be represented in all of their functions by a deputy designated by the dean and selected from among the appointed members of the board. During the defence, the board takes into account the external reviewers' reports and the supervisor's report. As a part of the defence, the student briefly outlines the dissertation and subsequently responds to the questions, comments, and objections raised by the external reviewers, the supervisor, and the members of the board.
10. In the event of a grade of "fail", the board for dissertation defence justifies this grade so that the reasons for the grade are clear from this justification and that the grade is open for review, informs the student of the option to comment on the grade and its justification in the defence protocol, and records the student's comments in the protocol. The student is entitled to change or supplement their comments within three days of the defence.
11. The chair of the board ensures that protocols are made of the defence and voting⁴⁵ and entered in SIS and that the original documents are delivered to the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office within five business days of the defence in order to be saved in the student's file.

Part IV Common Provisions

Article 34 Study Records

The records relating to courses, assessment (attestation) results, and state examination results are only kept electronically in SIS. A student may request from the Student Affairs Office or the PhD and Academic Qualifications Office a validated transcript of records in SIS relating to courses, assessment (attestation) results, and state examination results, or may obtain this transcript in SIS containing the official electronic mark of the University, provided this is technically possible in SIS. Such record is regarded as a student's transcripts of their studies.⁴⁶
